

AAll Journal September 2016 Issue

The September 2016 AAll Journal is Now Available Online.

Feature Article: The Top ETFs Over Five Years: Health Care Loses Some Ground

- Six of the 10 top-performing ETFs are from the health care category; homebuilding, consumer staples and bond funds are also on the list.
-

Also in This Issue:

- Portfolio Strategies: Investing to Avoid the Consequences of Being Wrong

Retirees should only risk the savings they don't need; young investors should allocate as much to stocks as their risk tolerance allows.

- First Cut: Value Stocks With Upward Estimate Revisions

These 16 stocks are profitable, have low price-earnings ratios and have rising earnings estimates.

- Stock Strategies: Why Value Beats Growth: A Brief Explanation

Value stocks perform better because the markets are not perfectly efficient and investors overpay for growth.

- Behavioral Finance: The Sound of Silence: Speaking to the Heart of Money Management

Discussing our attitudes toward money can result in healthier relationships and leave a better, lasting legacy with our heirs.

- Behavioral Finance: The Traits and Processes That Lead to Better Forecasts

Tetlock's analysis of forecasting tournaments found that the best forecasters are open-minded and able to distinguish between many degrees of uncertainty.

- Letters to the Editor

Answering questions about Jim Cloonan's new Level3 Passive Portfolio, clarification on the IRA rollover rules, and a comment on corporate cash.

- Briefly Noted

- Retiree Portfolios and Warren Buffett's Allocation Instructions
- Guidance for Analyzing Early Retirement Offer
- 10 Attributes Great Investors Share
- Older Adults Place Less Value on Saving

These informative articles are just a sample of the benefits to being an AAI member. To start becoming an effective manager of your own assets, consider a risk-free 30-day Trial AAI Membership.