

AAII Members Currently Prefer Energy, Tech and Health Care Stocks

The special question in this week's AAII Sentiment Survey asked AAII members what industries or sectors they like right now. Energy was the most the popular, picked by nearly a third (31%) of all respondents. Technology and health care tied for second, with each named by approximately 18% of respondents. Industrials were third, picked by about 13% of all respondents.

When we asked the same question in January, respondents said (in order of popularity) health care, technology, banking and finance, and energy.
