Our Member Question for this week is:

We are taking a break from the weekly survey and special question this week. We will return next week (10/29).

Last Week's Results:

Earlier this month, President Trump said “the Fed is making a mistake,” in response to the central bank’s campaign to gradually raise short-term interest rates, adding, “I think the Fed has gone crazy.” In response, former Federal Reserve chair Janet Yellen said attacking the central bank for raising rates as it deemed necessary “would politicize the Fed.” She continued, “It would undermine the confidence that the Fed has a commitment to price stability and to politicize it and to undermine that is something that is essentially damaging to the Fed and to financial stability.” With whom do you agree with more?

Janet Yellen : 81% - Votes: 1924

President Trump : 19% - Votes: 456

Poll results are as of 9 a.m. (Central) on Monday. 2,493 respondents.

AAII Survey: Readers React to President Trump’s Verbal Assault on Federal Reserve

We asked our readers with whom do they agree most in the war of words between President Trump and former Federal Reserve chair Janet Yellen and asked their thoughts on a sitting president publicly criticizing the Fed.

AAII Stock Ideas

Our recently revamped members-only Stock Ideas area of AAI.com still tracks over 60 different stock screening strategies, but now also offers the ability to explore screening strategies by guru name and the factors underlying each strategy. The new Stock Evaluator also provides in-depth data on over 6,000 U.S.-traded stocks.
